If you suspect that your dog may have bloated get him to the veterinarian immediately as every minute counts. The longer you wait, the lower his chances of surviving.

2

If your dog is going into shock, cover him with a blanket to keep him warm

Pets can die from shock in 10-20 minutes unless they get veterinarian help

Bloat can kill in less than 1 hour

Reduce the risk of bloat occurring by having your dog rest after meals or avoid strenuous activity just after meal times. Instead of one meal time, split feedings of smaller amounts throughout the day. If your dog is a fast eater, put an object in their food bowl such as a tennis ball to slow down their eating time

If he is in shock you will notice him act woozy, weak, eyelids droop, pale tongue or gums, rapid breathing, collapse

Usually big dogs like Danes are affected most often
